How Can You Help?

Who Are Friends?

The Friends of the Enid Public Library are people just like you! We are library advocates committed to making the library better. We are a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization. We are everyday citizens who are also patrons of the library.

We are moms and dads, grandparents, single people, married people, students, professionals, trades people, people of color, people of different beliefs, people of different political affiliations or no affiliation, people with a variety of different backgrounds. What brings us together is our love of the library—for whatever reason.

What Friends Do

Friends support the library in two main ways—financial donations and volunteering with library events and programming. We do this through sponsoring events, workshops and programs, hosting fundraisers such as the biannual Friends Book Sale and the Friends Book Sale shelves at the library. Some past events have been purchasing giant Legos and a sno-cone machine for the library. We have purchased plants and supplies and worked in the library's pollinator and raised bed gardens. Several Friends have volunteered at author festivals and helped with Summer Reading Programs. Friends who prefer working with books rather than people thrive in sorting book donations for our Friends Book Sale shelves and keeping them stocked. Some Friends serve on different committees to generate membership, and advocate for library funding, or publicity committees. We also assist sending our local librarians to state and national conferences and workshops. Friends pick and choose which activity works best for their own schedules, talents, and abilities. Not everyone does everything. (But if you want to and can, that's great too!)

Friends with Benefits

Friends join for the love of supporting the library, but stay for some of the side benefits.

- First dibs on items in the Friends Book Sale
- Special meet and greets with visiting authors.
- Special invites to library events
- Opportunity to meet with other Friends of the Library in Oklahoma (FOLIO) members at annual conferences
- Oh! And no fines for overdue books! (Enid Public Library doesn't charge overdue fines to anyone. But it is a nice benefit to Friends, too.)
- Being a part of the community of Friends

Become A Friend

Join us for a meeting to see what we do and to meet other Friends.

- Second Monday of the month
- 6pm
- Local History Room—upstairs at the Public Library of Enid and Garfield County

Annual Membership

- $10/individual
- $200/business
